Q-1. Congratulations on your well-deserved success! How does it feel to be a topper on the list?

Ans.: I was surprised and extremely happy with the news, it was too good to be true. I am glad to have the opportunity to make my parents, teachers and school proud. I feel motivated for my further studies.

Q-2. What was your 'success strategy'? What problems did you face while obtaining this honour?

Ans.: Consistency is the key. I strongly believe that small goals are easier to achieve on a regular basis. Hence targeting few topics for a day instead of aiming for larger goals became my success strategy. The only problem I faced was stress management.

Q-3. Who do you give credit to for your success? Why?

Ans.: My success is credited to my parents, teachers and the school. My parents were always my pillar of support. Teachers' timely guidance is the prime reason for my performance as all the concepts were cleared in class and no doubts were left unsolved.

Q-4. What advice would you give to students appearing for the next year examination?

Ans.: Following NCERT and solve previous year questions is the only advice I would give to the students appearing for the next year board examination. Along with this, students should study on a regular basis and must take school tests seriously.

Q-1. Congratulations on your achievement! Can you describe that moment when you were declared a school topper in science stream?

Ans.: Initially I was dumbstruck when I realized that I had secured 96% in boards. However, after being declared the school topper in science, I was ecstatic and overwhelmed. I had never felt such satisfaction before.

Q-2. Who do you attribute your success to? Why?

Ans.: I surely attribute my academic success to my loving parents and my honourable teachers. I have been blessed with amazing parents who have provided all the comfort and ease I need, to excel. My prestigious teachers have always lent a helping hand and paved a way towards my goals.

Q-3. What method of study did you adopt? What role did technology play to achieve your aim?

Ans.: I believe that smart work is the key to success. Hence, I used to focus majorly on understanding the concepts of the prescribed NCERT books, followed by periodic revision using active recall methods such as blurring. Technology did not play a major role, yet it was definitely a convenient tool to solve doubts, if any.

Q-4. What tips do you have for the next batch of science aspirants, gear up for board exams?

Ans.: Science is a competitive field in all aspects and it shouldn't be taken lightly. Procrastination is a student's worst enemy, so avoid it at all costs. Stick to the prescribed set of NCERT books, occasionally going through previous year questions. Creating a designated studying environment with no distractions is key for efficient work. Other than that, learn to enjoy the process not the outcome and you will surely succeed.

Oh dear dreams ! Why don't you let me sleep !
Every night and day, I wonder about you in deep !
But then I realise,

*Hard work is all that we need !
Should I be a technologist ?
From AI and Logistics,
To Computer and Robotics.
I shall design this.*

Wait, I would be a doctor too,
Serving for the people's well-being,
Ah! Don't be a sleeper,
Get up from your bed and be realistic dreamer !
Be ready !

*Because let me tell you this thing
That whatever I'll dream,
At any cost, I'll make it achieve.*

HOPE

In the world live both hope and despair,
One shall ripen our human race,
while other might wipe away our pace,
But being the sides of the same face,
One may never leave the another's place.
*With both living within us hampering our ways,
If hope runs along your veins,
Then believe in that heavenly voice,
Calling and gazing upon you from the skies,
And share your hope with the lows,
So they see a ray of hope you open up.*
But if there's despair and depression,
The world will die in Black and White,
Like the 90s classic movies that were too sad,
So let's not let the despair conquer our hope,
and live within a world where their's plenty scope.
